

NO END TO RIOTING.

DISORDER IN AUSTRIAN REICHSRATH CONTINUES.

The Life of Premier Radoni Threatened—Mobs in the Streets of Vienna—On the Verge of Revolution—Twelve Deputies Forcibly Put Out by the Police.

VIENNA, Nov. 27.—When the Reichsrath reassembled to-day the disorder was so accentuated that a strong detachment of police had to be called on to preserve order, but when the president of the house, Dr. Abrahamovics, entered he was greeted with vociferous shouts of "Get out." The Leftists rose to their feet in a body, many of the deputies shrieking wildly and an indescribable tumult followed.

During the tumult a Social Democrat, Herr Berner, made a rush for the president and a lively fist fight followed between Berner and the house attendants, who attempted to protect the chair. Another Social Democrat, Herr Kessel, jumped upon the ministerial bench and running to the president's chair seized the papers lying upon the president's desk and tore them to pieces, while other Social Democrats hastened to Herr Berner's assistance, occupied the tribune and demanded satisfaction for the pummeling of Berner. President Abrahamovics was compelled to flee.

Subsequently the Social Democrats and other deputies indulged in a free fight and Herr Berner was ejected from the house. The officer in command of the police called upon the Social Democrats to withdraw from the presidential platform. They refused and resisted the attempts of the police to eject them, but were eventually removed forcibly and singly. The police then made a cordon around the tribune. These scenes were enacted prior to the formal opening of the house.

While the deputies were fighting and howling upon the floor of the house a tumult arose in the second gallery, which the attendants promptly cleared. The authorities then caused all the lobbies of the house to be filled with police, the gates were closed and the building was guarded by a strong police force. The session of the house in the meanwhile was suspended.

The session was suspended three times and finally adjourned until to-day. The rioting and fighting was kept up every time the president attempted to call the house to order. Twelve deputies were forcibly removed by the police.

After 9 o'clock last evening the aspect of the streets became threatening. It is estimated that a crowd of 10,000, including a very large number of students, assembled and threatened the government with revolution, and Count Baden, the Premier, with the guillotine. An attempt was made to attack Count Baden's house.

The police repeatedly charged the crowd, but refrained from using arms. The students resisted with sticks. One police inspector was severely injured by a kick from a horse; another was thrown from his horse and so badly hurt that it was necessary to remove him to a hospital. A few students and some citizens received slight injuries. Not until nearly 11 o'clock was quiet restored.

To-day's edition of most of the evening newspapers has been confiscated and the police have freely arrested persons offering papers for sale in the streets.

Mr. Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) was among those expelled from the gallery of the Unterhaus.

A serious riot is reported at Graz, the capital city of Styria. It appears that the students and a large body of workmen attacked three newspaper offices, doing some damage. The police, with the assistance of the troops, have restored order, and twenty arrests have been made of the ringleaders.

Cassell, without a word of warning, drew a gun and shot Grover in the right breast. Grover leaves a widow and six small children. ## SOUTHERN SOLDIERS.

General Vincent Marmaduke Issues an Address to Missouri Ex-Confederates.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 27.—General Vincent Marmaduke of Sweet Springs, Mo., who was recently appointed by the ex-Confederate veterans of Missouri as chairman of a committee to write an authentic history of the part Missouri and Missourians took in the civil war, has issued a remarkable address to the ex-Confederates of Missouri, and says in part:

"The honor and glory of this great struggle was with the South, and Southern soldiers ought, in justice to themselves and their dead comrades, to preserve the memory of it. While the North and Northern soldiers are inveighing against all manifestation of sectional feeling, they are erecting monuments to their successful leaders and telling the story very much to their credit and to our detriment.

"The North had more than four soldiers to one in the South. Its armies were reinforced and assisted by 600 ships of war, manned by 35,000 sailors. It had unlimited credit, which meant an unlimited supply of money. It had factories to manufacture everything needed to arm and equip, to supply and maintain its armies and fleets. It had railroads running in every direction for the transportation of its troops. It had intercourse with the whole world, and could draw recruits for its army and navy from the whole world. The South had none of these advantages, or had them only to a limited extent. But, notwithstanding all its advantages, it took the North four years to crush the South, and then it did it by a grinding process, and without having gained a single decisive victory."

WEDDED TOO HASTILY.

Divorce Granted to Mrs. Dice in the Morning Set Aside in the Afternoon.

HAMILTON, Mo., Nov. 27.—Yesterday was divorce day in the circuit court at Kingston. About 11 o'clock Judge Broadbush heard the case of Mary Dice vs. Jerry Dice. Among those who testified in Mrs. Dice's behalf was Rev. Mr. Jacob E. Dyer. At the conclusion of the hearing Judge Broadbush announced that a divorce would be granted. Neither the judge or clerk made any entry in their journals. Mrs. Dice and Mr. Dyer left the court room immediately, went direct to the recorder's office, where a marriage license was issued in the fair plaintiff's maiden name, thence direct to Justice Prickett's office and were married. At the noon recess Judge Broadbush heard of the affair, and when court convened after dinner he set aside the decree of divorce and dismissed the case. In the meantime, the alleged wedding couple had departed for their home at Bonanza, six miles distant. The outcome of the case created a sensation. Judge Broadbush in reversing the decree, took occasion to condemn, in strong words such hasty marriages. Mr. Dyer is a Campbellite minister of this county. Both the parties are of high standing. Mrs. Dice was formerly of Kentucky.

AN UNPOPULAR PARDON.

John T. Leabo's Release Causes Indignation in Bates County, Mo.

BUTLER, Mo., Nov. 27.—This community was greatly surprised to learn of the pardon of John T. Leabo. Leabo murdered his wife about twelve miles east of Pleasanton in 1887. He had obtained an insurance of $2,500 on her life, and to secure this sum he committed the crime. He was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged three different times. Governor Marmaduke commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. When he went to the penitentiary, he said that if released he would kill several persons who were active in his prosecution. Two brothers of the murdered woman are merchants in this place, and they say his pardon is a travesty on justice. They telegraphed Governor Stephens yesterday in hopes of inducing him to rescind the pardon. If Leabo appears in Bates county, there may be trouble. At the time of the crime a mob would have hanged him had it not been for the effort of M. A. Youkam, a brother of the woman.

INDIAN KILLS THREE.

SHOCKING TRIPLE MURDER COMMITTED.

His Wife Slain First—An Indian Who Attempts to Interfere Promptly Killed—Saturates the House With Kerosene and Then Fires It.

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 27.—A Chippewa halfbreed named John Anamasin left the Fond du Lac reservation several days ago and went to the town of Cloquet. Late Tuesday he returned, crazed with liquor, and in a fit of drunken rage attacked his wife, who was about to give birth to a child. He dragged the woman from her bed and threw her on the floor, where he beat and kicked her into a state of unconsciousness.

About the time Anamasin finished his work another Indian named Peterson happened to be passing the house and hearing a noise broke into the room and attempted to protect the prostrate woman. Anamasin seized a heavy club and turned his attention to Peterson, who made an effort to get out, but before he could do so, it is said, Anamasin knocked him down and literally pounded his head into a pulp. He then took the body and threw it into a creek near by and returned to the house, saturated the floor with kerosene and applied a match. Then with the evident intention of covering up the act he closed and locked the door and left the house. A number of neighbors by this time became aware that something was wrong, and, breaking into the house, succeeded in getting the woman and child out, but the rescuers barely escaped with their lives. Both the woman and the child to which she had given birth died half an hour later.

A squad of Indian police started out after the murderer and caught him about daybreak on the Cloquet road. He showed considerable fight and informed the police that they could not have him alive, whereupon one of the police fired at him, inflicting a slight wound. He was taken back to the reservation and locked up.
